System Development

1. 2012–2013: Participation in the development of a runtime network monitoring system. Language: F#.
2. Since 2008: P ρ Log: PROLOG implementation of the ρ Log calculus for rule-based programming. The package extends Prolog with possibilities to formulate strategic transformation rules with conditions over sequences of terms built over variadic function symbols and individual, sequence, function, and context variables.
3. In 2008: Implemented in MATHEMATICA a procedure for solving matching equations in flat theories with individual, function, and sequence variables. The procedure enumerates the minimal complete set of matchers. Other implementations include two terminating incomplete restrictions (one of them simulates MATHEMATICA's flat matching algorithm) and a complete algorithm that gives a finite description of the infinite solution set as regular expressions over substitutions.
4. In 2006: Implemented in MATHEMATICA an algorithm for solving equations with individual, function, and sequence variables, where no variable occurs more than twice (quadratic equations). The algorithm returns a nondeterministic finite automaton that gives a finite description of the infinite solution set.
5. In 2005–2006: Implemented in PROLOG an algorithm for solving regular context sequence constraints.
6. In 2000–2005: Developed the following packages in the programming language of MATHEMATICA for the project "THEOREMA" (leader: Prof. Bruno Buchberger): equational prover, TPTP to THEOREMA converter, unification procedures for various theories with sequence variables, unification for higher-order patterns, interface between THEOREMA and external deduction systems.
7. In 1998–1999: Project "Proving and Solving over the Reals" (leader: Dr. Josef Schicho): A solver for multivariate polynomial strict inequational constraints, written in C.
